Have you ever played the "Telephone Game?"

Sometimes the whispered message started at the beginning never makes it to the intended recipient or arrives in a rather jumbled fashion! We all know that quality professional development is a key to student success. However, we also know that sometimes our intended message never makes it to our real audience-the students! Join us as we focus on quality strategies that work! Together we will work at moving beyond the good intentions of professional development to ensure that the message sent is message received.

Light refreshments will be served.
